SECRÉTARIAT AUX AFFAIRES AUTOCHTONES (QUEBEC)

Aboriginal Initiatives Fund II

This component of the Aboriginal Initiatives Fund II (AIF II) within the “Plan d’action gouvernemental en matière d’action communautaire” (Government action plan in the community action field) aims to support Aboriginal community action organizations. To this end, $8 million has been set aside for them over a five-year period. From this amount, $1 million is reserved for Aboriginal women’s organizations. The goals of this component are to:

- Support improving the socioeconomic condition of Aboriginals;
- Support the development of Aboriginal services;
- Recognize and promote action from Aboriginal community organizations.

INDIGENOUS AND NORTHERN AFFAIRS CANADA

Preventing violence against Indigenous women and girls

Family Violence Prevention Program:

On September 15, 2014, The Government of Canada released its Action Plan to Address Family Violence and Violent Crimes Against Aboriginal Women and Girls. As part of the Action Plan, as of April 1, 2015, the Government will invest a further $158.7 million over five years for shelters and family violence prevention activities on and off-reserve. AANDC's Family Violence Prevention Program (FVPP), a key component of the Action Plan, provides funding to assist First Nations in providing access to family violence shelter services and prevention activities to women, children and families ordinarily resident on reserve.

Beginning April 1, 2015, the FVPP will also provide additional funding for violence prevention programs both on and off reserve Aboriginal populations.

PUBLIC SAFETY CANADA

Northern and Aboriginal Crime Prevention Fund (NACPF)

The Northern and Aboriginal Crime Prevention Fund (NACPF) assists communities experiencing multiple risk factors and other challenges that affect their ability to respond to crime issues, such as remote geographical location and limited capacity. It achieves this by providing time-limited funding to support culturally sensitive initiatives that foster the development and implementation of crime prevention approaches in Aboriginal communities, both on-and off reserve and in the North. In addition, it assists building the knowledge and capacity required to develop or adapt culturally sensitive, effective ways to prevent crime.

PUBLIC SAFETY CANADA

Aboriginal Community Safety Development Contribution Program

The goal is to support communities in the development of efficient, integrated approaches that can maximize government investments. This will be accomplished by supporting three broad activities: developing community capacity, both through training and information/knowledge dissemination; (knowledge building, knowledge sharing, direct training); supporting communities to develop community safety plans; and/or supporting community-based pilot projects designed to explore and implement holistic, Aboriginal healing models responding to the safety needs of Aboriginal women and girls. (implementation readiness and implementation)

This funding is part of Ungaluk's work on Community Safety Planning.
